THE BRILLIANT OPERATIONS

NEW YORK REGIMENT,

GEN. SHIELDS' REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS, 1ST BRIGADE.

St. Augustine, Mexico Aug. 24, 1887

Sta—On the 19th inst., about 3 o'cleck in the atternoon, pursuant to the orders of the general commanding this division. I marched from this place with the New York and South Carolina regiments of volunteers towards the battle field of Contrerss. On reporting to the commander in chilef who occupied on my arrival a position which overlooked the field, he described to me in a few words the position of the contending forces, pointed out the route of my command, and briefly instructed me as to the dispositions which would render my force the most serviceable. Directing my march upon the village near Contrerss, the troops had to pass ever ground covered with rocks and orage, and filled with chasms, which rendered the route almost impassable. A deep ravine, along the bed of which roiled a rapid stream, was passed after dark, with great difficulty and exertion; and to rest the wearfed troops after crossing, it directed them to be upon their arms until midnight, and whits occupying this position, two strong pickets throws out by my orders, discovered and fired upon and drove back a body of Mexican Infantry, moving through the fields in a direction from their position, two strong pickets throws out by my enders, discovered that an attempt had, in like manner been made by the enemy to pass the position on the main road, occupied by the last regiment of artillery, and with a like want of success, thus being foiled in his efforts to retire during the night. About midnight I again resumed the match and joined Brig. Gen. Smith in the village already alluded to.

Gen. Smith previous to my arrival had made the meating the judicious arrangements for turning and approximant the men to use cover of the Hacishua, determined to attack him upon his front.

I selected the Palmetto regiment as the base of my line, and this galiant regiment moved forward firmly and rapidly, under a fire of muskstry as terrible, perhaps, a any which soldiers ever faced. The New York 12th and 16th deployed galiantly on the right, and the 9th on the left, and the whole advance opening their fire as they came up, and moving steadily forward, the enemy began to waver, and when my order to charge was given, the men rushed upon and scattered his broken ranks. As we reached the rand, the advance of Worth's command appeared, driving the enemy from the strong hold of Churubusco. I took command of the front and continued in pursuit until passed by Harney with his cavalry, who followed the routed foe into the very gates of the city.

continued in pursait until passed by Harney with his cavalry, who followed the routed foe into the very gates of the city.

In this terrible hattle, in which a strongly fertified enemy fought behind his works, under the walls of his capital, our loss is necessarily severe; the loss, I regret to say, has fallen most severely upon my command. In the two regiments of my own brigade, numbering about six hundred in the fight, the loss is reported 240 killed and wounded. Pierce's brigade, under my command in this action, lost a considerable number in killed and wounded, amongst the latter was the gallant Col. Morgan, of the loth. His command having rejoined its slvision immediately after the action, I have as yet received no official report of its loss. A particular and detailed report of the loss, as also of the prisoners captured by this command, accompanies this report. In this last engagement my command captured 350 prisoners, including 60 officers; of this number 42 had deserted from the American army during the war, and at their head was found the notorious O'Reilly, who had fought against the troops at Monterey and elsewhere. In closing this report I bog to offer my thanks to the many gallant officers under my command for their gallant and fearless support during the conflict. To Col. Burnett and Lieut, Colonel Dickinson and Major Gladden of the South Carollina Volunteers, as also to many of their gallant subordinates, every praise is due. Col. Burnett was severely wounded at the head of his regiment, and lieut Col. Dickinson also severely wounded whilst in the command of his regiment, and bearing gallantly forward the colors of his corps. My thanks are due the Mesical Staff of the command; Drs Halsteed and McKebbin of the New York Regiment, and Drs. Clark and Biand of the South Carollina Regiment, as also to Dr. Swift, U. S. A., for their attention to the wounded.

It affords me pleasure (and I but perform my duties

San Augustine, Aug. 23, 1847. \(\)

General.—Early on the morning of 20th inst., Colonel Butler, in pursuance of your orders, marched his command from the road running to the south of his quarters, by which it was reported many Mexicans were retreating from the field of Contreras to the city of Mexico. Owing to the thick patches of maguey and a rugged ravine, he could not reach his position until several hundred of the enemy had passed. As the regiment emerged from the revine into a field, extending to the road, (which field was fianked on the right by a stone wall, extend-

Capt. Marshall, who rejoined the regiment with his command at this place, reports to me, that soon after the battalion had left the church where the prisoners were placed under his charge, finding himself destitute of provisions, sent a detachment of his company to forage for fruit and green corn; this detachment surprised a party of Mexican soldiers engaged in the same pursuit. They killed one and captured 43, whom they brought back and delivered to their captain. This makes the total number taken at that place 250, which with 137 killed and wounded, makes a total of 357.

I should be unjust to the officers of the regiment, and to my own feelings, were I to close this report without acknowledging the galiant manner in which all the grades of officers performed their duty, and sustained the honor of their flag. Until the engagement of the verning, our regiment had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops and the sposition, and the troops the control of the same of the verning our regiment had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and the troops had been in no very dangerous position, and unfortunate commander had his horse rich and unfortunate commander. AFFAIRS IN MENICO.

(From the New Orloans Duits, Sept. 19.)

The Niexican accounts of the Posture of affairs in that country, which are to be found in the late Harsma spayers give confirmation to the opinion expressed by us a few days ago, that the prospects of a satisfactory peace are by no means encouraging.

The most important facts contained in the Havana journals, which were not referred to by our correspondents, are, that Congress is opposed to peace, and will not convene at any other place than Queretaro, a city in the State of the same name, about one hundred and twenty mises north west of the capital—which is said to be the centre of the anti-peace agitation. General Paredes, too, was exerting his powerful influence to keep antipathies, by alliances with parties or individuals in the country—we may give up all prospects of a peace that will be executed by Mexico.

IMPORTANT FROM SANTA FE.

(Cor. of the St Louis Union)

MAT the destruction of the town of Los Pias, on the 6th July last, by the troops under command of Major Edmonson, we found upon the prisoners then taken, letters written by one Illarw Gensalles and others, lenders of the late projected insurrection, giving a plan of their intended operations, and asking the citizens of the town to be in readiness for action at a moment's warning; stating, also, that the Americans were already weakened by the departure to the States of a number of troops; that others were to start in a few days, and amongst them the company of artillerists. Capt Fisher, and that sples would be kept constantly on the road to give information of their, the artillerists' departure, at which time they entertained no doubt of being able to strike a final and decisive blow. The prisoners also stated that many of their men with their arms; had gone to the town of Loquesta, to join their leader, Gen. Gonsalles.

Loquesta is a town of considerable size, and admirably located for defence; being situated on the San Magil river, surrounded by monatains of an almost inaccessible character. The prisoners stated that Cortes and his party were at, or near, Anton Checo, a frontier town situated on the San Magil river, some fifteen or twenty miles below Loquesta. Having disposed of the prisoners taken at the storming of Los Fias, by sending them to Santa Fe for trial, Major Edmondson, with the companies of Captains, Horine and Holloway, and two pieces of artillery, started on the loth of July to the the town of Anton Checo, a distance of about forty-five miles. Upon our arrival at the latter place at daylight the following morning, we found the town deserted, except by a lew old men, women and children, from whom we extracted the information that their men, with their arms, had likewise gone to the town deserted, exce Edmondson, with the companies under the command of Captains Horine, Hollowsy, McMillan and McKinny, and three companies of the battalion under command of Major Willock, arrived at Fort Leavenworth on the 11th inst. All the troops destined for New Mexico were net between Santa Fe and the Arkansas Bend. Matters appeared to be in a peaceable and settled condition in New Mexico at the time of the departure of the volunteers from Santa Fe.

Major Edmondson is bringing home with him the remains of the late Lieuts B. F. and G. E. Lackiand, for interment in St. Louis county. Capt. Horine has likewise with him the ashes of Charles Quisenberry and James McClenaban.

wise with him the ashes of Charles Quisenberry and James McClenahan.
Capt. Smithson, of the third regiment of Missouri volunteers, was attacked on the lat of August, near Pawnee, Fork, by about four hundred Indians, in which the latter lost some six or eight killed, and as many wounded. The Indians succeeded in running off twenty four horses which broke loose at the time of the attack. Two of the volunteers had died of the measles, which were very prevalent; their names were Paul Haney and George Nowland.—St. Louis Republican, 20th inst.
